Deep pool of top talent

Switzerland continues to rank at the top of the Global Talent Competitiveness Index as the world's most appealing location for attracting, retaining and developing talent. This is thanks to the excellent Swiss education system, the Agreement on the Free Movement of Persons with the European Union (EU), the country's cosmopolitan attitude, attractive employment conditions and benefits, social mobility and a high quality of life.

Taxes & incentives

- Combined effective corporate tax rates (federal, cantonal and municipal) from 12% to 24%.
- Financial incentives and tax reductions may be available and are assessed on an individual base (innovation potential, job creation etc.). Additionally, R&D support is available through super deductions and a patent box.
- Social security costs in Switzerland are much lower than in other European countries. Costs range from 12.4 to 17% of the gross salary and are paid half by the employer and half by the employee.
- VAT: 7.7% (lowest rate in Europe)
- Switzerland has a progressive but moderate individual tax rate. The rate is flatter in comparison to any other European country.

Immigration

Residence in Switzerland is fairly easily obtained for EU/EFTA citizens thanks to bilateral agreements between Switzerland and the EU. For people from other countries certain provisions apply.

Temporary and permanent residence permits are issued by the cantonal migration offices. Stays of up to three months do not require a permit, while stays of over three months do require one. It may be possible to work depending on the type of permit issued.

Innovation leader

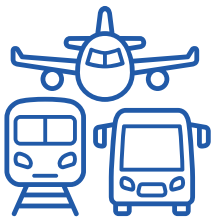

Switzerland has been ranked as the most innovative economy in the world for over a decade in WIPO's Global Innovation Index.

Innovation in Greater Zurich is strengthened by the high density of well-connected universities and research institutes such as the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology Zurich (ETH), the interdisciplinary Research Institute for Materials Science and Technology (Empa), the University of Zurich and various Universities of Applied Sciences. The established exchange between academic institutions and the private sector adds to the attractiveness of the Greater Zurich Area.
